The Center for Economic Development and Business Research is a State Data Center and exists to enhance the region’s economic growth. The center provides applied research to business, governments and nonprofits by using primary and secondary data sources.

Services

Accelerated Business Research (ABR)
ABR is a rapid and customized process of collecting, analyzing and disseminating relevant data, actionable information and insights to decision makers. Research capabilities include economic and demographic profiles, consumer behavior and lifestyle analyses, market trend insights, competitive landscape analysis, company profile and industry analysis.

Economic and Fiscal Impact Analysis
The center measures the economic and fiscal impact of economic development activity.

Labor Market Analysis
CEDBR complies and analyzes labor force and demographic data. This service aids companies in determining the available labor market, ADA and EEO compliance.

Forecast
CEDBR provides employment, retail and population projections. Businesses utilize this to determine potential markets, budget planning and general expectations.

Economic Commentary
The center collects primary data sets and provides observations, explanations and interpretations of global, state and local economic activity. Business leaders contract with the center to assist in making sound business strategies that are based on applied economic fundamentals.

Constituents

Business
Companies range from startups to existing companies with more than 500 people.

Professional Organizations
Regional professional organizations will use the center for economic perspectives and market trends.
